

Certified True Copy Oxford City Council - HMO Register dated 01 September 2026

Oxford City Council is required under the Housing Act 2004 to maintain a register of current HMO licences, temporary exemptions from HMO licensing and interim management orders. This must include certain information, as listed in The Licensing and Management of Houses in Multiple Occupation and Other Houses (Miscellaneous Provisions) (England) Regulations 2006. Oxford City Council publishes the required information via the Public Access System. This allows you to find all the details required for each HMO and is real-time data. However, licences are not published until they are issued and are removed once expired.

Oxford City Council publishes this shortened version of the register which is updated approximately monthly to help members of the public quickly check if a property has an HMO licence. This list is not published to fulfil the requirements of the public register - this can be found on Public Access.

Oxford City Council does not condone the use of direct marketing undertake by third parties accessing this information. By doing so, third parties could find themselves in breach of data protection legislation by not gaining consent from the individuals concerned.

Temporary exemptions from HMO licensing have the suffix "TXN" in the case number. There are no interim or final management orders in force at this time.
